Running X Resources

This can be done either before or after you connect to banach

Step 1: Setup Exceed

Step 2: Start Exceed

If you set up X11 packet forwarding for your SecureCRT connection to banach and you have Exceed running, any X11 command on Banach that would usually open another program (xterm, gnumeric, xemacs, etc.) will display on your monitor.

You can enter any valid email address @purdue.edu, as long as no one else is already using it. After you have entered the address, click "OK".

In general. Internet-style addresses are recommended for

Once you have specified an Alternate Email Address any email sent to that address will be forwarded to your @purdue.edu address if your service is set to "store", or to your math (or other) email address if your service is set to "forward".

Netscape Preferences

Your Netscape preferences, your address book, and your bookmarks are all saved when you log out of the computer and restored when you log back in, so any changes you make will be persistent and you will not have to make them again.

Printing to Machines in Instructional Labs

To print from banach to a printer in an instructional lab, type "lpr -Pprinter@franklin.cc filename", where printer is the printer name and filename is what you want to print. If you don't know the printer name, it is written on the printer, or you can look it up using the "check printer queue" icon on the desktop.

To send jobs to the color printer in the Math Building, use "mathg109chp" as the printer name. To send jobs to the transparency printer, use "mathg109chp-t".

ResNet

Information about ResNet can be found at http://www.purdue.edu/resnet, or by going to the Information Center in Math 231.

As part of the ResNet services, Instructional Computing offers a free off–campus 56K dial–up service to any faculty, staff, or student.

Getting Help

General account questions should be directed to the Instructional Computing Services Information Center in Math 231.

Questions about specific Instructional Computing Resources can be sent to ma-mgr@purdue.edu.
